Internet Privacy Statement

General Privacy Statement- As your credit union, we are aware that you have shown significant faith by entrusting us with your most personal of information, your finances. We have spent much time building our relationship with you, and as that relationship evolves into the next millennium, rest assured that no matter the technology used for member interaction, our respect for your privacy will not diminish.

Site Access- Any person using the Internet is given access to The Ohio's First Class Credit Union site (the “Site”), which provides a general overview to enable the individual user to learn about our many member benefits. However, access to the members-only areas and individual account areas require passwords.

Security- Although our communication lines remain open and transparent to our members allowing them to have access to their accounts, unauthorized access is next to impossible. With our security technology, using 128-bit encryption, firewalls, and secured socket layers (SSL), you will be able to make secure transactions without fear that an unauthorized party will gain access to your accounts. We do not permit the installation of password “cookies,” just in case your computer is lost or stolen. You will be required to enter your password every time you log on to the Virtual Branch system. Should an unauthorized user attempt to access your account, only three attempts at determining your password are allowed before the user, who occasionally may be you, is locked out of the system. Should this occur, please call our Member Service Department. You will be asked to provide account-specific information; once that information is verified, you will regain access to your account.

Site Content- Any information regarding your share savings and checking accounts is accurate to the minute. Financial Information is provided for informational purposes only, as a courtesy to our members and visitors. Should you decide to take direct action based on general financial content provided on this Site, please be aware that you do so at your own risk. Every Site user has a different financial situation, and what applies ideally to one customer may have adverse consequences for another.

Use of Cookies- Cookies were originally designed to help a website distinguish a user's browser as a previous visitor and thus save and remember any preferences that may have been set while the user was browsing the site. A cookie is a small string of text that a website can send to your browser. Web sites sometimes use cookies to enhance the user's visit; in general, cookies can securely store a user's ID and password, personalize home pages, identify which parts of a site have been visited or keep track of selections in a "shopping cart." If you are just browsing our Site, a cookie identifies only your browser. However, if you become a registered user on the Site with a designated User Logon ID and Security Code ("Registered User"), and will be accessing your confidential account information (such as Bill Pay), you must accept certain cookies as they are essential for site administration and security. While we will implant a cookie that records your member preferences so that we can provide personalized information that we believe will be of value to you, we DO NOT permit a cookie to be placed on your computer to store your User Logon ID and Security Code.

Set Email Preferences- In order to notify our Registered Users of extra benefits provided as online financial customers, we may send occasional email informing you of these special offers. Should you wish to be removed from this list, simply send us an email indicating that you do not wish to receive e-mail.

Site Navigation Statistics/Information Use- As your credit union, our goal continues to be one of exceptional member satisfaction. Therefore, we track general information on web site use and site traffic in order that we may improve site navigation and information to make your Virtual Branch experience as efficient and fulfilling as possible. We also compile general statistical information on members based on our records, which are used to benefit our members when creating partnerships with merchants and other financial service providers. Although the technology by which we gather our data has evolved, we will still use the data in the same way. Because Internet-collected data is more accurate, we'll be able to use that information to create even more partnership opportunities. Therefore, as an Internet financial services customer, our members will have the opportunity to share in additional benefits not offered to our traditional customers. We will not provide your specific personal information to any outside marketing organization without your consent.

Loan Application Information Gathering- Should you choose to apply for a loan online, be aware that we will treat that application as we do a standard, in-person loan application, following all policies and procedures established for loan applications, including credit checks, employment verification, etc.

Meeting Your Needs- As technology evolves, we will continue to look for better ways to gather and use information in order to offer financial products and services which best meet your financial needs, and to protect and safeguard information about you and your accounts. We encourage you to review this Internet Privacy Statement periodically for updates.
